

LexisNexis® for Development Professionals

What's new?

The Great Features and Functionality You Want!

LexisNexis for Development Professional provides world-class features that maximize your ability to create value and increase efficiency for your organization.

Get there fast by Browsing in the Document (available in Advanced Search)

The search terms are highlighted live links in the document for easy browsing. In the Full Text document view, jump from search term to search term quickly using our new 'hit to hit' navigation.

Stay Organized with Result Groups

You can now group your results set by publication type, or see which individual publications and sources are in your results set. Because it is so easy to see what sources comprise your answer set, you can always be sure to look at the ones of most interest to you.

For news and company documents, you can group your results by Company, Industry, Subject, Geography, or Language, and ensure that you have the most relevant category at your fingertips.

Pick your sources with Source Selection

Use the Sources tab to browse the list of sources that you subscribe to. If you only know part of a source name, use the Find Sources tab to find one or more specific sources. Click on the Add link to easily add sources to your search. To easily keep track of your source groups, you can now name them yourself.

Stay informed with Alerts

Save searches for future use or save as an Alert. An alert is a search that updates on a schedule you choose: daily, several times a day, weekly or monthly. You can also save previous 100 searches for up to 30 days.

Get where you want to go with our Search Forms

With the Advanced Search form, you have the option of performing a Boolean (terms and connectors) or Natural Language search, and you can view document segments for the sources you are searching and add them to your search.

All of our search forms, which cover various content areas, are easier to find. Plus, depending on what information is most important to you, you can make any form your start page.

Get smart with LexisNexis® SmartIndexing Technology™ Terms

You can refine your search using SmartIndexing Technology terms in all News and Company documents. You may click on indexing terms in a full text document to add them to the original search and change the search, or you can just use the terms to narrow the current results set. Using the power of indexing, if you are searching for company, the LNDP service can help you find the ultimate parent and show the entire corporate structure, including all company subsidiaries.

Deliver information the way you want it with Delivery Options

You can deliver your results in several ways: print to an attached printer, deliver via email to one person, or download to a file.

- Choose specific fonts for print, and HTML or Text for email.
- Choose whether to highlight search terms in the print document.
- Choose one of several formats for print and email—list, full, full with indexing, etc.
